At the same time he wanted it distinctly under-stood that there were to be no more fines impowed in these cases. When the parties arrested are guilty they will have to come in and take Mr. Cabill, counsel for the defendant, said to the court that his client had given up the business. He also told the judge that he had had a death in his family recently and that he was trying to settle the funeral expenses. Judge Miller questioned McGlue, who said he had given up the business for good. The judge then imposed a fine of $100 and in doing so told the defendant that a repetition of the offense would be punished by something more than the imposition of a fine.

Prices and Qualities will surprise and please you. Full qt. bot. Whisky, 89c. Other special Christmas offers. Seligson's, 1200 Pa. ave. An Investigation-The Result, Notwithstanding the oft-repeated asseveration of certain pretended strictly cash sellers that they have the bargains in the Furniture trade the outcome of an investigation pursued by a lady who had become impressed with an announcement of this character only to be more than annoyed when she came to view the "fake" set up as a great bargain in Rockers demon-strated the fact that for similar qualities in goods there was surprising uniformity in prices among first-class houses, though now and then a "genuine special" would be handled by one or another at prices beyond competition for the reason that the house would at the time control the exclusive privilege. I believe I have handled more "exclusives" in a given period of time than any other house in the city and just now Sideboards are to the former to and just now Sideboards are to the front. If you want to give a handsome Christmas present-one that will continuously keep the do in happy remembrance—you could nothing more suitable than one of the hand some Sideboards from my large stock.
